CHRISTMAS DISPLAY IN ROCHESTER

Traditions of Christmas are inspired in a seasonal scene at Rochester Center and townspeople as well as out of towners will find it worth a ride to view the display erected between the Town Hall building and the First Congregational Church vestry.

Youngsters, particularly, will be delighted by Santa and his mailbox and might spend a few minutes in awesome expectation watching for their name to appear in the revolving name slot on the box.

All are certain to find inspiration in the true spirit of Christmas captured in a manger scene, uniquely designed with the wisemen appearing in rotation. Beckoning travelers to the scene is a large brilliantly lit cross rising above the manger.

The tradition of sharing Christmas with others through greetings is symbolized by a large replica of a seasonal greeting card. Adding the final mood of the Christmas spirit to the setting is a background of Christmas music.

Each Christmas season, for a number of years, members of the Rochester Brotherhood have erected a completely different scene at the Rochester Center site and the time and effort put in by Brotherhood members to construct this year's display is quite evident in its outstanding design of appeal and movement.

MASTER PLAN REVEALED

A small group of Mattapoisett townspeople gathered at Mattapoisett Town Hall on Wednesday, December 9th, to a meeting scheduled by the Planning Board. Mr. Carlton Burr, chairman of the Planning Board, introduced Mr. David Young of the firm of Shurcliff & Merrill which was the Boston company engaged to draw up the $25,000 master plan voted at Mattapoisett's town meeting.

A series of maps of the town were displayed in which present development of the town, streets, and roads, watershed areas, conservation areas and future development as envisioned by the planners were outlined. Mr. Young used this same material projected on a screen as he made a summary of the Master Plan. He started with facts obvious to anyone in residence, explaining that Route 6 is the main traffic bearing road in town, that the business area is concentrated on Route

6 and that all present homes are built along existing streets and roads. He then explained that his study is based on a projection of over 25 years. Present population growth, if maintained, indicate that 17,000 people will live in Mattapoisett by 1990. Maps showing the present developed area were used by Mr. Young who pointed out that only 30% of the available land is now in use. Much of the village is permeable soil but a great portion of the undeveloped land is hard pan. Mr. Young said that this fact will create problems unless a sewerage treatment plant is put into operation. Route 195 will have a great influence on Mattapoisett's development Mr. Young's plan is based on the assumption that Route 195 will take a northern course. The plan shows a large business section near the 195 interchange on North Street near the Rochester line. Hurricane flood areas were indicated on the map in green. The Master Plan suggests that these so called green belts be obtained by the town as conservation lands for park and recreation area and water fowl breeding places. Mr. Young said that this could be done by purchase, or by obtaining easements from the owners of the land. The maps show 3 Junior-Senior High Schools plus several elementary schools.

The harbor facilities around the wharf remain basically the same. The Master Plan suggests the takeover of the present town beach as a docking area for small craft. The town beach would be relocated on Goodspeed Island which would

Mr. Young said that a complete report will be printed and furnished to every resident. It is hoped that this can be done by the time of the town meeting.

Department was not in favor of the northern route of 195 but favors the southern one now planned by the DPW. He said that contamination of sodium chloride has been known to occur from similar roads. He also asked why the Master Plan does not show the eel pond marina. Mr. Young said that the trouble of keeping the channel clear and the cost of the marina was the reason for its elimination. Mr. Jenney said that a breakwater across the mouth of the harbor would be worthless as protection because it is too far away. Mr. Young said that it could be relocated anywhere.

The question was asked, "the entire Master Plan is based on the assumption that Route 195 will take the northern course. Suppose the plans of the DPW are not changed? Is there another plan for development around a southernt Route 195?" Mr. Young stated that, in that case, the plan would have to be adapted - for there is only one Master Plan. He said that the northern route was chosen to help the Planning Board in their attempt to have the DPW change the route to the north.

Mr. Vokes, chairman of the Finance Board, pointed out the three most important and expensive problems facing the town. He mentioned schools, protection of the water supply and a sewage system. He questioned the need of 3 Junior-Senior high schools in Mattapoisett and, by illustration, said the city of New Bedford has only one high school for a population far in excess of 17,000.

In conclusion, Mr. Young said that the Master Plan is just a guide and can be changed at any time. He said that it will prove useful in

TEACHER FROM URUGUAY SPEAKS AT PTA

Education is easily acquired under the socialized system of government in his country, a young Spanish teacher from Uruguay told a group of parents and teachers at a Parent-Teachers Association meeting at Rochester Memorial School. Swen Olaussen, PTA president, presided. The PTA prayer was given by Mrs. Alta Riddell, 6th grade teacher. Secretary and treasurer's reports were given by Mrs. Robert Hiller and Greenwood Hartley, Jr.

"It is easy to acquire an education and receive a degree in my country," Cesar Albini commented in noting the benefits of socialized education in Uruguay. The 23-year old Spanish teacher at Old Rochester Regional High School explained that there are three schedules a day in teaching institutions in his country enabling anyone to acquire a complete education convenient to his own time. "Tuitions and textbooks are free," he noted. The literary level in Uruguay is 92 per cent he said.

In commenting of the country's "very highly socialized system of government Mr. Albini, here on a practice teaching visa, said that he "was very surprised" to learn after arriving in this country he had to take out insurance for medical care coverage since in his country medicare is provided for. Utilities are also government controled. The young man stated that he felt that "since the people were working for the government, the government was also working for the people".

Family unity is the primary function of the people of Uruguay, he said. Families are small with the welfare of the old people the main consideration. It is quite common, even in small towns for families to have two maids in their service. Mr. Albini said his father, who was a lawyer with an important position, had earned $150-200 a month which was considered a high salary. The teacher noted that while food, clothing and general living expenses were very inexpensive anything mechanized including ordinary appliances were highly expensive. "A man could work 10-15 years to buy a car which Americans would consider a junk."

Mr. Albini, who is from the small town of Salta, 25 miles from Brazil, described briefly the geographical nature of Uruguay "a country of moderation in climate" with the seasons opposite from ours. Answering numerous questions from his attentive audience, he noted Spanish as the main language and religion predominantly Catholic but with many breaking away to other faiths. "People of Uruguay think of relations with America as good, but American tourists in South America give wrong impressions of American people", he added. "Americans are very nice - sometimes too nice," the youthful teacher remarked, "but need to be a little more understanding." At the conclusion of his talk, Mr. Albini was presented with a gift, a set of scrimshaw cufflinks by Mr. Olaussen on behalf of the PTA.

Receiving enthusiastic applause was a brass choir from the Old Rochester Regional High School, who entertained with a number of Christmas selections under the direction of Zavan Mazmanian. Music students comprising the choir were Darby Locke, Robert Forant, Manuel Barros, Douglas McGarvey, Jonathan Hartley, Heidi Hartley, Paul Rinta and Michael Collyer. The program also featured professionally played accordion selections by Roland Gaumont, also an Old Rochester student.

PTA members voted to eliminate the distribution of Christmas baskets this year, since other organizations take care of any needs, with the stipulation that the PTA would provide baskets if needed. It was also voted to change the date of the PTA annual Country Fair usually held August 1 to May 29. A donation of $25. will be sent to the American Field Service. Mrs. Riddell reported a total of $40 in proceeds from the school book fair, noting that the attendance at the event was lessened by competition of parents attending another school function held the same night.

A report on estimates for black topping a school basketball court was given by George Evans, a teacher. Albert Jenney, principal of the school remarked that the court would not only serve as a school function, but would also be an asset to the town for activities outside of school. It was voted to let the committee be responsible for black topping the court and to give them $300 to work with. The committee includes Mr. Evans, Paul Gibbs and Conrad Bernier.

A Christmas arrangement, by Mrs. John Hayes, decorated the refreshment table.

JUNIOR GRANGE MEETING

Worthy master William Sylvia, Jr. presided at the Mattapoisett Junior Grange meeting last Friday night, December 11th, in the Grange Hall. The steward of Sippican Pomona, Norman Ouellette, was an honored guest.

Karen Ramos, Home and Community Service chairman, reported on the work she and her committee have done, and at the present time they are making favors for the nursing home and shut-ins.

Joseph Alves conducted the lecturer's program and Christmas party.

The lecturer's march was held, followed by a candle lighting ceremony with green, red and white candles. The lighting of candles has long been a part of the Christmas tradition. The green is for the decoration of Christmas, the tree, wreaths, holly and mistletoe; the red for the gaiety of Christmas, denoting the suit Santa Claus wears, ribbons, red paper, sleds and wagons; and the white for the solemn aspects of that beloved day, for snows of a white Christmas, for the purity of heart and to symobilze the birthday of the Babe who was born in a manger and wrapped in the white of His swaddling clothes.

The reader was one of the assistant matrons, Mrs. Mary Messier, who also lighted the candles.

The Legend of the Christmas Rose was given by Doris Fearing. Christmas Carols were sung with Walter Caswell at the piano.
